- Before making the choice, let us study the advantages and disadvantages of life both in the city and in the country. Taking the city first, its advantages are its educational facilities, its schools and colleges, its facilities to make a living, its various large offices, its big firms and industrial concerns, which might easily employ you, or a chance it offers you to set up a shop for yourself, if you have a small capital, or a press or a factory if your capital is larger. It is sure to have a large and efficient hospital where your health will be attended to. We can't forget its museums and parks, its beautiful public holdings. There might be great and experienced men living there, intercourse with whom will improve you in every way. You study life in all its aspects best in a large city which has been described as a school for the study of the different types of men.
